HiTech celebrates 25 years of service to local, regional and international manufacturers

HiTech, a full-service engineering company with facilities in Green Bay and Neenah, Wisconsin, is celebrating 25 years of providing complete automation solutions to local, regional and international manufacturers. HiTech holds a unique niche in the industry, being a single-source provider of control systems integration, custom machine building, control panel assembly, project management and turnkey automation solutions.

According to CEO and founder, Michael J. Shea, “I think our success lies in our diversified experience and our commitment to service. While we haven’t been immune to the recent challenges in our industry, we’re proud of the growth we’ve experienced over the years, and the relationships we’ve developed with clients here in Wisconsin and all over the world. When you form such strong partnerships, it translates into success for our customers, success for HiTech and success for our employees.”
